ABSTRACT

Methods and apparatus to provide a clustered variations-aware architecture are described. In one embodiment, one or more variations within a clock domain are detected and utilized to adjust a clock signal of the clock domain.